

Badger Hollow Wind Energy Center

The Badger Hollow Wind Energy Center is a 110-megawatt (MW) wind power generation facility in Iowa and Grant Counties, Wisconsin. Land-based wind energy is critical to meeting growing energy demand and strengthening local economies, while creating jobs, American energy independence, and delivering cost savings for consumers.

This [project] will pay car payments, college tuition payments and home mortgages for children, grandchildren and great grandchildren for a number of years to come, because there's a revenue stream that connects it back to the farm and the family.

Invenergy Impact at Badger Hollow Wind

Badger Hollow Wind will invest up to $550,000 annually through local tax revenue, supporting the local economy through increased funding for causes like local infrastructure, fire and emergency services, and schools. In addition, Invenergy is a long-term partner committed to giving back to Iowa and Grant County residents.

Above: The Badger Hollow Wind team donated $10,000 to the Cobb, Eden, Livingston-Clifton, Linden, Montfort, and Rewey Fire and Rescue Services.

Investing in Education

Above: The Badger Hollow Wind team always enjoys attending the Iowa Grant High School career fair and speaking with students about careers in the American energy industry.

Valuing Rural Traditions

Above: The Badger Hollow Wind team has donated to Wisconsin High School Rodeo Association for three years in a row. The funds help with entry fees, team jackets and travel costs to rodeos around the state.
