

Jun. 9, 2020

Law graduates can tune in to virtual ceremony today

Fifteen attorneys, politicians and other legal professionals are scheduled to speak and welcome graduates into the profession.

Law school graduates across the nation will get the chance to attend a virtual graduation ceremony with notable legal professionals offering encouraging words today.

Fifteen attorneys, politicians and other legal professionals are scheduled to speak and welcome graduates into the profession. The event goes live today at 11 a.m. on LexisNexis' Facebook page and will run for 20 minutes.

Speakers include: Andrei Iancu, director of the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office; Judy Perry Martinez, president of the American Bar Association; James M. Wagstaffe, partner at WVBR LLC; Jan Kang, founder of Women's General Counsel Network; Larry Kramer, president of the William and Flora Hewlett Foundation; Miriam Rivera, managing director at Ulu Ventures; Paul S. Grewal, vice president and deputy general counsel at Facebook; Tessa J. Schwartz, managing partner at Morrison & Foerster LLP; Thomas V. Girardi, partner at Girardi Keese; Rep. Hakeem S. Jeffries, D-New York; Brad S. Karp, chairman at Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison LLP; David B. Lat, founding editor of Above The Law; Sen. Robert J. Portman, R-Ohio; Michael Walsh, CEO of LexisNexis Legal & Professional; Frank H. Wu, president of Queens College, City University of New York.

-- Henrik Nilsson

#358048