Artificial Intelligence Compliance Challenges – A Double-Edged Sword

The rise of AI has both exacerbated challenges and resulted in new tools for compliance professionals. Privacy laws and the developing AI regulatory landscape's focus on transparency and explainability have generated a number of issues for companies developing, acquiring, and using AI, as well as raised the interest of regulators worldwide. Leveraging the insights of veteran privacy and investigations attorneys, in addition to a leading in-house counsel for an AI company, this session will discuss recent directives and regulations aimed at the responsible development and use of AI and practical steps to ensure compliance with the evolving requirements surrounding disclosures and safety mechanisms as well as minimize risk.

Moderator: Galia Amram (Morrison Foerster)

Speakers: Natalie Kim (OpenAI), Marian Waldmann Agarwal (Morrison Foerster), Charlotte Walker-Osborn (Morrison Foerster)

Rue	Parallel Government Enforcement Actions and Class Actions: 2023 Trends and Best Practices State and local law enforcement have been particularly active in recent years, especially in the consumer protection and financial regulatory sectors—two focus areas for the private class action bar. Increasingly, private litigations are prompting follow-on government investigations or, in reverse, government scrutiny can lead to parallel class action litigation. A panel of legal experts will discuss enforcement priorities of state attorneys general, as well as the SEC and DOJ; trends with respect to parallel or follow-on class actions; and strategies for managing the opportunities and pitfalls that parallel matters may present to mitigate potential legal, financial, and reputational harm. Moderator: Nicole Serfoss (Morrison Foerster) Speakers: Jill Termini (UPS), Erin Bosman (Morrison Foerster), Carrie H. Cohen (Morrison Foerster), Purvi Patel (Morrison Foerster)
