Modern Slavery Act Transparency Statement for Photobox Group
Modern Slavery Act Transparency Statement for Photobox Group

At Photobox Group, our purpose is to create togetherness for our customers. We’re on a mission to inspire our customers to tell their life stories through personalised photo products to enhance their personal relationships. We are committed to ensuring full respect for the human rights for everyone in our business and across our supply chains.

What we’ve done

At Photobox Group (including all three of our brands Photobox, Hofmann and posterXXL) – as part of an over-arching objective to act ethically in our business activities – we are committed to doing what we can to ensure that there is no modern slavery or human trafficking in any part of our business, including our supply chains.

- Over the past year we have contacted our most significant suppliers, covering the majority of our spend in the UK, and requested them to sign up to the UK government modern slavery clauses;
- Any new suppliers we require to sign up to the UK government modern slavery clause;
- We offer training on Modern Slavery to employees through our learning platform;
- Our employees have access to a whistleblowing service to raise any concerns regarding wrongdoing, including modern slavery.

What we will do

Next year, we will continue the following actions to further our commitment:

- Insert appropriate commitments into contracts with new suppliers; and
- Ensure all new suppliers are automatically required to sign up the UK government modern slavery clauses;
- Monitor government guidance for any updates in this area;
- Update training materials to educate our employees about modern slavery and human trafficking and ensure new employees have the relevant training.

We will regularly assess the effectiveness of these systems, to ensure that they meet our objectives, and to determine whether further steps are required.
