

ENTERTAINMENT NEWS

Yulia, Anton and Klim

Getty

FIRST MOVIE IN SPACE!

A RUSSIAN actor and director are filming the first ever movie in space!

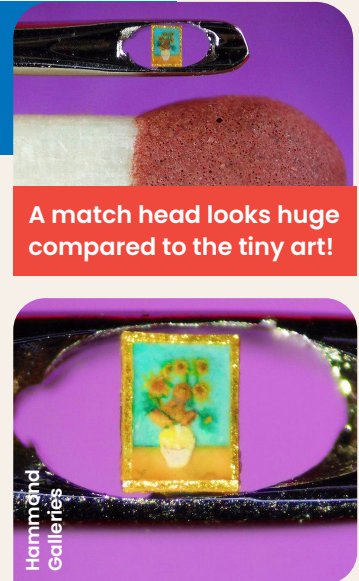

Yulia Peresild and Klim Shipenko were joined by professional cosmonaut Anton Shkaplerov for the big launch to their new movie location – the International Space Station (ISS).

The trio will spend 12 days on board filming scenes for a new movie called The Challenge. The story is all about a surgeon (played by Yulia) who is sent to the ISS to help save a cosmonaut who has fallen ill.

Yulia had to undergo four months of training for the out-of-this-world project, which will also see guest appearances from some other cosmonauts currently working on the ISS. It looks like Russia will beat the USA to make a movie in outer space, as Tom Cruise still hasn't blasted off for his proposed film shoot.

TINY ART MAKES BIG MONEY

Six artworks each small enough to fit in the eye of a needle have sold for £90,000. David A Lindon recreated famous artworks by Monet, Banksy and van Gogh (pictured). Each of the six mini masterpieces sold for around £15,000.

STATESIDE SHEERAN

Pop megastar Ed Sheeran has announced he will be heading to the States this month to mentor singers on the US version of The Voice. It's going to be a busy few months for Ed as his new album is also coming out this month, and he's working on a Christmas single with Sir Elton John.

ACROSS

- 3) Having made something again (verb 9)
- 5) Someone who helps, like a teacher, tutor or coach (noun 6)
- 6) Things that are made or created with extraordinary skill (plural noun 12)
- 7) A Russian astronaut (noun 9)

DOWN

- 1) Sequences of actions that happen in a film, book or play (plural noun 6)
- 2) To go through or experience something (verb 7)
- 4) A person in charge of a film (noun 8)
- 5) Someone who is extremely famous, usually in entertainment (noun 8)

