

10 Tips to Keep Your Cat Entertained

1. Toys, toys, toys

Get a variety of toys for them to play with. Try teaser toys, interactive, or even just have a box around.

2. Window watching

Cats love looking out the window. Give them a spot or two to look outside – you might even try a window-mounted cat seat.

3. Furniture with height

Many cats enjoy observing from high spaces. Invest in a cat tower. For added entertainment, get one with fun toy attachments and a scratching post.

4. Play time

Cats are good at being on their own for extended periods of time. But they need human interaction, too. Spend time playing with them – use their toys!

5. Get another furry friend

If you think your cat would respond well to another pet in the house, consider getting a second cat, or even a dog, to bond with.

6. Outdoor catio

Want to let your cat outside, but aren't comfortable letting them roam free? Invest in a catio: an enclosure they can safely hang out in outside.

7. Cat walk

It may sound strange, but cats like walks, too! You might need to get them comfortable in a harness first. But once they're adjusted, take them for a stroll.

8. Chewing grass

Bring the outside in with some chewing grass. It's easy to grow and safe for cats to eat – it's even good for their digestion and can prevent hairballs.

9. Shelf space

One way cats cure their boredom is jumping on high shelves. If you don't mind it, leave some empty. If you do mind, try putting up a few just for them.

10. Sun beams

If there's a spot of sun, you'll almost always find a cat sitting in it. They love being warm, so make sure you keep curtains open during the day!
