Final Recap: Indiana claimed the 2019 Big Ten Women's Swimming and Diving Championship Saturday at the Counsilman-Billingsley Aquatic Center at Indiana University. The title marks the team's sixth in program history and the first since 2011.

Indiana totaled 1386.5 points through the four-day competition, followed by Michigan (1302.5), Ohio State (1162.5), Minnesota (942) and Wisconsin (717) rounding out the top five.

The Hoosiers claimed gold in the 200 medley relay (Scott, King, Jensen, Koontz - 1:35.86), 400 individual medley (Bailey Andison - 4:02.37), 200 breaststroke (Lilly King - 2:06.99), 1-meter diving (Jessica Parratto - 366.05 points), platform (Jessica Parratto - 394.40 points), along with setting records in the 400 medley relay, (Scott, King, Jensen, Koontz - 3:26.60) and 100 breaststroke (Lilly King - 55.88).

Wisconsin's Beata Nelson was named Swimmer of the Championships, Indiana's Jessica Parratto was tabbed as Diver of the Championships and Michigan's Maggie MacNeil claimed Freshman of the Year honors.

Day 3 - Friday: After Friday's competition Indiana stands in first place (938.5), Michigan second (827.5), Ohio State third (779), Minnesota fourth (657) and Wisconsin fifth (478).

Minnesota's Sarah Bacon earned the 3-meter diving title (430.60 points), while setting a Big Ten Championships record in the event. Northwestern's Olivia Rosendahl finished second with 389.20 points and Indiana's Jessica Parratto finished third with 358.25 points.

Multiple Big Ten Championships records were set Friday night, including Indiana's Lilly King (100 breaststroke - 55.88) and Michigan's Siobhan Haughey (200 freestyle - 1:41.57) surpassing their own records.

Saturday's competition will begin at 11 a.m. Eastern time with the 200 backstroke, 100 freestyle, 200 breaststroke and 200 butterfly prelims. Platform diving will begin at 2 p.m. ET.

Day 2 - Thursday: After day two Indiana leads the team standings with 497 points, followed by Michigan in second (436.5), Ohio State third (434), Minnesota fourth (328) and Wisconsin rounding out the top five (245).

Two Big Ten Championships records were set Thursday in the 200 individual medley by Wisconsin's Beata Nelson (1:53.27) and 400 medley relay by Indiana (3:26.60).

Indiana's Jessica Parratto earned the first diving title of the championships by scoring 366.05 points in the 1-meter diving event. Minnesota's Sarah Bacon finished second with 363.95 points and Northwestern's Olivia Rosendahl finished third with 356.15 points.

Friday's competition begins at 11 a.m. Eastern time with the 100 butterfly, 400 individual medley, 200 freestyle, 100 breaststroke and 100 backstroke. Three-meter diving is slated to begin at 1 p.m. ET.

Day 1 - Wednesday: After the first day of competition Michigan leads with 120 points, followed by Indiana (114) and Ohio State (106) in second and third, respectively. The night consisted of two relays, the 200 medley and 800 freestyle. The night was highlighted by Michigan setting a new Big Ten Women's Swimming Championships record in the 800 freestyle with a 6:56.78 time.
