

California Privacy and AI Legislation Tracker

By IAPP Research and Insights

Bills in the California Legislature impact organizations' data practices and understanding of the laws through proposed legislation related to the collection or sharing of personal information or to artificial intelligence use and governance. Notably, this tracker does not include every privacy or AI-related law, rather, it highlights any California data law with potential privacy or AI governance implications across sectors.

The information in the tracker is from the California Legislative Information website and each bill is hyperlinked to the specific bill information. It also includes a brief summary of the legislation, as well as its status and last legislative action.

We will continue to update this tracker as there is new activity and welcome the assistance of IAPP members. Please let us know at research@iapp.org if there are additional California privacy or AI bills we should be following.
