What Levels of Universities Are Available in the United States?

University Levels

SOME BASICS

In the United States, institutions of higher education are known as colleges and universities. Students gain admission by submitting an application, and each institution has its own level of selectivity, requirements and admission standards. Colleges and universities may award degrees at the associate, bachelor, master and doctoral levels. Degree offerings vary by institution. Differences among them include the type of institution (liberal arts; public or private), the size of enrollment, cost and location.

Community or Junior College

PROGRAM

Two-year Associate degree, often in preparation for a specific career or vocation.

Upon completing their course of study, community and junior college students often apply to transfer to a four-year university to complete their Bachelor's degree. Most institutions accept many of the credits earned at the community college level, especially if there is an articulation agreement between the two.

Attending a community college for two years and then completing a Bachelor's degree at a university can be a cost-effective way for you to obtain a university degree in the U.S.

Undergraduate Study

PROGRAM

Four-year Bachelor's degree in a specific course of study (major).

DEGREES AWARDED

Bachelor of Arts (BA) • Bachelor of Science (BS) • Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) • Bachelor of Social Work (BSW) • Bachelor of Engineering (B.Eng.) • Bachelor of Education (B.Ed.) • Bachelor of Philosophy (B.Phil.).
Five-Year Professional Architecture programs offer the Bachelor of Architecture Degree (B.Arch.).

ADMISSION CONSIDERATIONS:

Area of Study (Major) • Grade Point Average (GPA) • Quality of Courses (Level of difficulty) • Class Ranking
Other considerations may include: Participation in extracurricular activities • Personal essay
Letters of recommendation • Interview • Standardized test scores (SAT® or ACT®)

Graduate Study

PROGRAM

One to three years of additional study in a particular subject area after completion of a U.S. Bachelor's degree or its equivalent from another country.

DEGREES AWARDED

Master of Arts (MA) • Master of Science (MS) • Master of Business Administration (MBA)
Master of Education (MEd) • Master of Fine Arts (MFA) • Master of Social Work (MSW)
Master of Engineering (ME) • Master of Laws (LLM) • Master of Public Administration (MPA).

ADMISSION CONSIDERATIONS:

Area of Study (Major) • Grade Point Average (GPA) • Personal Statement • Letters of Recommendation
Professional Experience • Standardized Test Scores (GMAT®, GRE®, or MAT™)

Doctoral Study

PROGRAM

The highest of academic degrees, this is an intensive and lengthy concentration in a particular field of study following the completion of a master's degree.

DEGREES AWARDED

Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) • Doctor of Arts (D.A.) • Doctor of Education (Ed.D.) • Doctor of Theology (D.Th.)

Types of U.S. Institutions of Higher Education

One of the advantages of studying in the U.S. is the variety of offerings open to you. While every school has its unique characteristics, the majority of four-year colleges and universities fall into three main categories:

Liberal Arts Colleges

A liberal arts college places primary emphasis on undergraduate study and offers exposure to a wide range of academic subjects, from the sciences to the humanities. Its curriculum is intended to foster general knowledge and develop students' overall intellectual capacities, rather than prepare them for a specific profession.

Liberal arts colleges can be either public or private.

Public Universities

Public universities, often referred to as state universities, receive most of their funding from the state and/or federal government, although tuition revenue and private funding also contribute to their support. Faculty research grants offer tremendous research opportunities for students.

In general, public universities cost less than private ones, and often have statewide admission requirements.

Private Universities

Unlike public universities, private universities receive no governmental financial support, but instead are funded through alumni donations, faculty research grants and tuition fees.

Technological resources, research facilities and small class sizes are major reasons students choose them.

Some of the most competitive and selective institutions in the United States are private. U.S. News & World Report ranked the following as the top universities in the United States for 2016:

Princeton University	Duke University
Harvard University	University of Pennsylvania
Yale University	California Institute of Technology
Columbia University	Johns Hopkins University
Stanford University
University of Chicago
Massachusetts Institute of Technology

"California Lutheran University is pleased to grant conditional admission to ELS EAP Level 112 graduates, to both our undergraduate and graduate degree programs, including our accelerated one-year MBA program, as we find international students entering CLU via the ELS Intensive Program have an extremely high level of academic English proficiency, including strong presentation and academic writing skills, and are subsequently able to communicate effectively with their university professors and American classmates alike."

- Study up to Level 112 at any of the 60+ ELS Centers in the U.S. By completing the last three levels of the ELS intensive English for Academic Purposes (EAP) program, you satisfy your university's English proficiency requirement and can be granted full admission.

Planning Your Studies in the United States

Here is your Blueprint!

► STEP 1:

Create a Timeline

- Know Your Application Submission Deadline

You must submit your complete application package with all original documents as required for your major and degree to our University Admission Services (UAS) office in Princeton, New Jersey, at least six weeks prior to the university deadline date.

- Select Your ELS Center

UAS Conditional Admission applications must be submitted with a selected ELS Language Center and ELS start date.

- Plan Ahead for Your University Start Date

Most universities encourage you to finish ELS levels a month or two prior to the start of your university study. Please note: conditional admission requires a minimum of three months of study in the ELS Language Centers English for Academic Purposes program, and additional study may be required depending on your English level placement and progress through your program.

Please include these considerations in your application timeline to allow for a smooth transition to university campus life.

- Avoid Deferrals

In some cases, deferrals are not permitted or may require additional review and/or a new application.

To locate a Counselor in your area, visit UniversitySearch.com/CounselorConnect.

► STEP 2:

Prepare Your UAS Application Materials

- Complete Your University Admission Application

An ELS authorized Counselor will help you complete the ELS UAS University Admission Application.

- Pay Your University Admission Services Fee

The University Admission Services fee includes the application process for one* ELS University Conditional Admission Network (UCAN) partner, UAS processing fees, courier fees for handling documents and UAS-to-University communication follow-up.

*Additional university applications will be processed at additional cost.

- Determine if You Need a Third-Party Transcript Evaluation

Your ELS authorized Counselor will advise you if the university to which you would like to apply requires credential evaluation. In most cases, only an additional set of sealed transcript(s) and graduation certificate(s) are needed.

There is a fee for this service.

Please consult your ELS authorized Counselor to see if your intended major and degree require a third-party transcript evaluation.

► STEP 3: Gather Your Supporting Documents

• Sealed Transcripts

Official, original, sealed transcripts and graduation certificate in English – one set per institution to which you will apply.

First-year undergraduate applicants: secondary school transcript and graduation certificate.

Transfer undergraduate applicants: secondary school and university transcripts.

Graduate applicants: university transcript(s) and graduation certificate(s).

• Unsealed transcripts

An unsealed copy of each transcript and graduation certificate is required for ELS to verify that your GPA meets the university minimum.

• Bank Statement

Official bank statement issued within the last six months with bearer's name in English and balance in U.S. currency. An original document is required for each university application.

• Financial Statement

Original Financial Statement signed by student and sponsor (final page of the application).

• Essay

Statement of purpose or admission essay.

• Sealed Letter(s) of Recommendation

Signed, sealed and labeled in English with student's name and recommender's name.

Undergraduate applicants: one recommendation per school.

Graduate applicants: three recommendations per school.

- CV/résumé
- Copy of passport picture page
- Copy of test scores (ELS certificate, GRE®, GMAT®, SAT®/ACT®, TOEFL®, IELTS™, etc.), if applicable. Official score results must also be reported to the university to which you will apply.
- Additional documents as necessary (e.g., portfolio, audition).

Your ELS authorized Counselor will submit your University Admission Services application online and express mail your original required documents for a complete application to the ELS office in Princeton, New Jersey.

We will be in contact with the university admissions decision-makers and notify your Counselor immediately upon receipt of your university's decision.

Study at Highly Ranked Schools

U.S. College Rankings – What do they mean? How can you use them?

In the United States, there is no “official” ranking list of the top 10, 20, 50 or even 100 U.S. universities. However, each year numerous magazines and guidebooks are published that contain college rankings and comparisons. These published rankings, although unofficial, are often used by students as a great starting point in deciding which university to attend. With more than 4,400 colleges and universities in the United States, keep in mind that it is admirable for a college or university to be recognized in any of the published rankings.

These American ranking publications utilize a wide variety of standards and methodologies to assess and compare the thousands of American colleges and universities. Some use more objective academic benchmarks (such as student standardized test score data) and others rely on subjective feedback (such as student and staff survey results), depending on the area of the university being compared. Some ranking publications focus on the general academic competitiveness and strengths of educational institutions, while other publications spotlight only a specific area for comparison, such as comparing professor and university administration accessibility.

For example, U.S. News & World Report’s Graduate Business School Ratings Methodology uses ratings gathered from deans and directors of accredited master’s programs in business, corporate recruiters, employment statistics of graduates, starting salary success, GRE® and GMAT® score mean averages, acceptance rates, and so on. The Fiske Guide to Colleges staff members select 300 of the most interesting and well-known colleges and universities. They send opinion surveys to administrators at those colleges, who distribute them to current university students. These surveys gather subjective information on a variety of topics, including professor and college administration accessibility, social life, academics, and quality of life.

Each ranking system and publication has its own criteria, standards, varied use of fact and opinion, and methods of gathering information. Compare these criteria to your own personal study goals. Your college life will consist of many experiences, and a ranking index is only one of several tools that help you find the school that meets your academic and social needs.

Core Classes

The ELS curriculum's core classes include all of the vital building blocks of English language learning. Students may be grouped into Beginner, Intermediate, Advanced and Masters levels to allow students of similar abilities and interests to study together, but each student is tracked and evaluated according to his or her specific level.

STRUCTURE AND SPEAKING PRACTICE: Includes instruction in speaking, listening, grammar and more.

LANGUAGE TECHNOLOGY CENTER: Technology-supported learning allows you to concentrate on your individual learning needs and objectives.

VOCABULARY ENRICHMENT: This systematic approach to vocabulary study helps you learn, use and remember new vocabulary.

READING AND WRITING: Concentrates on the development of reading comprehension as well as writing fluency and accuracy.

- All ELS programs provide placement testing for assignment to one of our first 10 proficiency levels (Levels 101 to 110).
- Depending on the program, each level consists of 15 to 30 class hours per week of teacher-led instruction in listening, speaking, reading and writing.

- All sessions are four weeks in duration.
- At the end of each session, students successfully meeting the requirements for that level will progress to the next ELS level and immediately begin the new session.
- You can begin your ELS program on any one of the 26 starting dates each year and choose to study for any number of four-week sessions.
- Students completing Level 112 of the intensive English for Academic Purposes program will receive our Level 112 Certificate of Completion, accepted as proof of English proficiency for admission at more than 650 colleges and universities worldwide.

Skills Enhancement Classes

Skills Enhancement Classes are available to all Master's-level students enrolled in General English and English for Academic Purposes; they are also available to General English students at all levels in the afternoon. Skills Enhancement Classes can focus on academic skills such as Listening and Note Taking, Advanced Academic Writing, and Speech and Debate, and topics such as Current Events, Public Speaking, American Slang, and Film and Discussion.

Offerings vary by location.

ELS Level Chart

The 12 levels build upon one another like a pyramid, relying on the foundation of skills learned at lower levels and moving upward in complexity as the levels increase.

Options for higher education become available to you as you move up the pyramid, providing you with opportunities to put your newly acquired skills to work in ways that help you reach your goal of admission to a college or university.

With every level you progress up the pyramid, you are closer to reaching the pinnacle of the ELS program:

Ali, Saudi Arabia

When I was 17, I decided to study abroad in the U.S. I went to the American Embassy in Saudi Arabia, my home country, to ask them about it. They told me that I needed to study at a school where I could get an English certificate. I decided to do my overseas study through ELS.

I couldn't speak English well at the time. The ELS class on campus had students from about 20 countries, speaking about 15 different languages. The ELS teachers were very experienced in teaching these kinds of students. By the end of the day, I'd be looking forward to going back the next day.

After nine months, I received my certificate from ELS. I think I matured a lot through my experience at ELS and university. Especially, I keep in touch with my classmates from ELS. Because we were all there going through this struggle at the same time, we developed strong friendships.

At university, when I see my former classmates working hard and trying to achieve something big and pursue their dreams, it makes me want to work hard too. I feel grateful for these important friendships; they give me a lot of motivation.

I'm majoring in biomedical engineering right now. I'm planning to take a year off to do an internship to gain experience working in a company, then apply for graduate school. I want to learn more about the medical field, and then go and help people in my home country."

Located on 76 hectares of waterfront property, Eckerd College is a private, coeducational college of liberal arts and sciences with a diverse student body of 1,800 students from 48 states and 40 countries. With 85% of its students living on campus, Eckerd's suburban setting provides a safe environment for students and easy access to all the cultural, social and athletic activities of a major metropolitan area. On campus, Eckerd students enjoy a diverse array of individual and organized student activities, such as kayaking, sailing, movies, comedy shows, concerts and club sports, and even go on trips to Florida theme parks. Students can also cheer for Eckerd's NCAA Division II athletic teams – soccer, basketball, baseball, softball, tennis, golf, beach volleyball, indoor volleyball and sailing.

The intellectual atmosphere at Eckerd is engaging, open-minded and innovative. The average class has 20 students, and there are no graduate teaching assistants, so students get one-on-one attention and mentorship from professors during an innovative 4-1-4 academic year. Exceptional opportunities also exist in joint student-faculty research, and Eckerd students have their pick of more than 200 internship placements as well as more than 300 destinations for study abroad. As a result of these great résumé-building opportunities and the support of a very strong Career Services office, international students are placed in CPTs while they are in school and in OPTs upon graduation.

Established in 1969, Stockton University is a public university in southern New Jersey with programs for undergraduate, graduate and continuing education students. Stockton students have ample opportunity to get involved on campus and volunteer in the community: the university offers over 130 student organizations representing a diverse variety of interests. In February 2015, Stockton was officially designated a university by the State of New Jersey.

Stockton's campus in Galloway, New Jersey, is safe and convenient. The campus is within easy reach of all major area highways, and is just minutes from Atlantic City and the Jersey Shore beaches, an hour from Philadelphia, two hours from New York City and three hours from Washington, D.C. Because the university is located in a national reserve surrounded by pine forests, lakes and fields, students can take a walk, run or bike through protected pine forests and spot native wildlife. Students can borrow a canoe and explore Lake Fred or hang out on the shore of the Oasis. Stockton also offers classes in Atlantic City and three other locations throughout southern New Jersey.

SCHOLARSHIPS (FOR ELS GRADUATES)

ELS Undergraduate: The ELS-EXAA (ELS-Excellence in Academics) will award undergraduate students matriculating at the university with a cumulative grade point average of 3.0 or higher in ELS EAP Levels 110-112. Marcos, Honduras

“In most classes, we have to do research, presentations, debates and essays that are essential requisites to study in university...”

“I am from Honduras, and I studied Civil Engineering. When I was in classes related to structural mechanics, I had a fascination for bridges, tunnels, dams, buildings and some other structures that were built with steel and concrete so I decided to study a Master program in Structural Engineering, where I graduated with the highest honors in 2011. Also, I had the pleasure to work with the best geotechnical engineer and structural engineer of Honduras. We designed a lot of structures together including bridges and buildings.

Finally, I decided to study in Clemson University two years ago. I have heard and read a lot of good comments about it, hence my decision to study in Clemson. I began at the ELS/Clemson-Greenville center on August 25, 2014. I entered the Ph.D. program with emphasis in Structural Engineering at Clemson in January 2015. In Honduras I studied English in several courses, but it is very hard when you don't have time to study. But at the same time, I am aware that ELS program is only a platform; I have to keep reading, learning new vocabulary and practicing as much as I can.

In my opinion, everything works fine at ELS/Clemson-Greenville. The teaching system at ELS program is very similar to Honduras' system so I feel very comfortable. In most classes, we have to do research, presentations, debates and essays that are essential requisites to study in university.

I enjoyed my time at ELS/Clemson-Greenville very much. Thanks to the staff because they have created a big family here.”

The ELS Direct-Entry Pathway

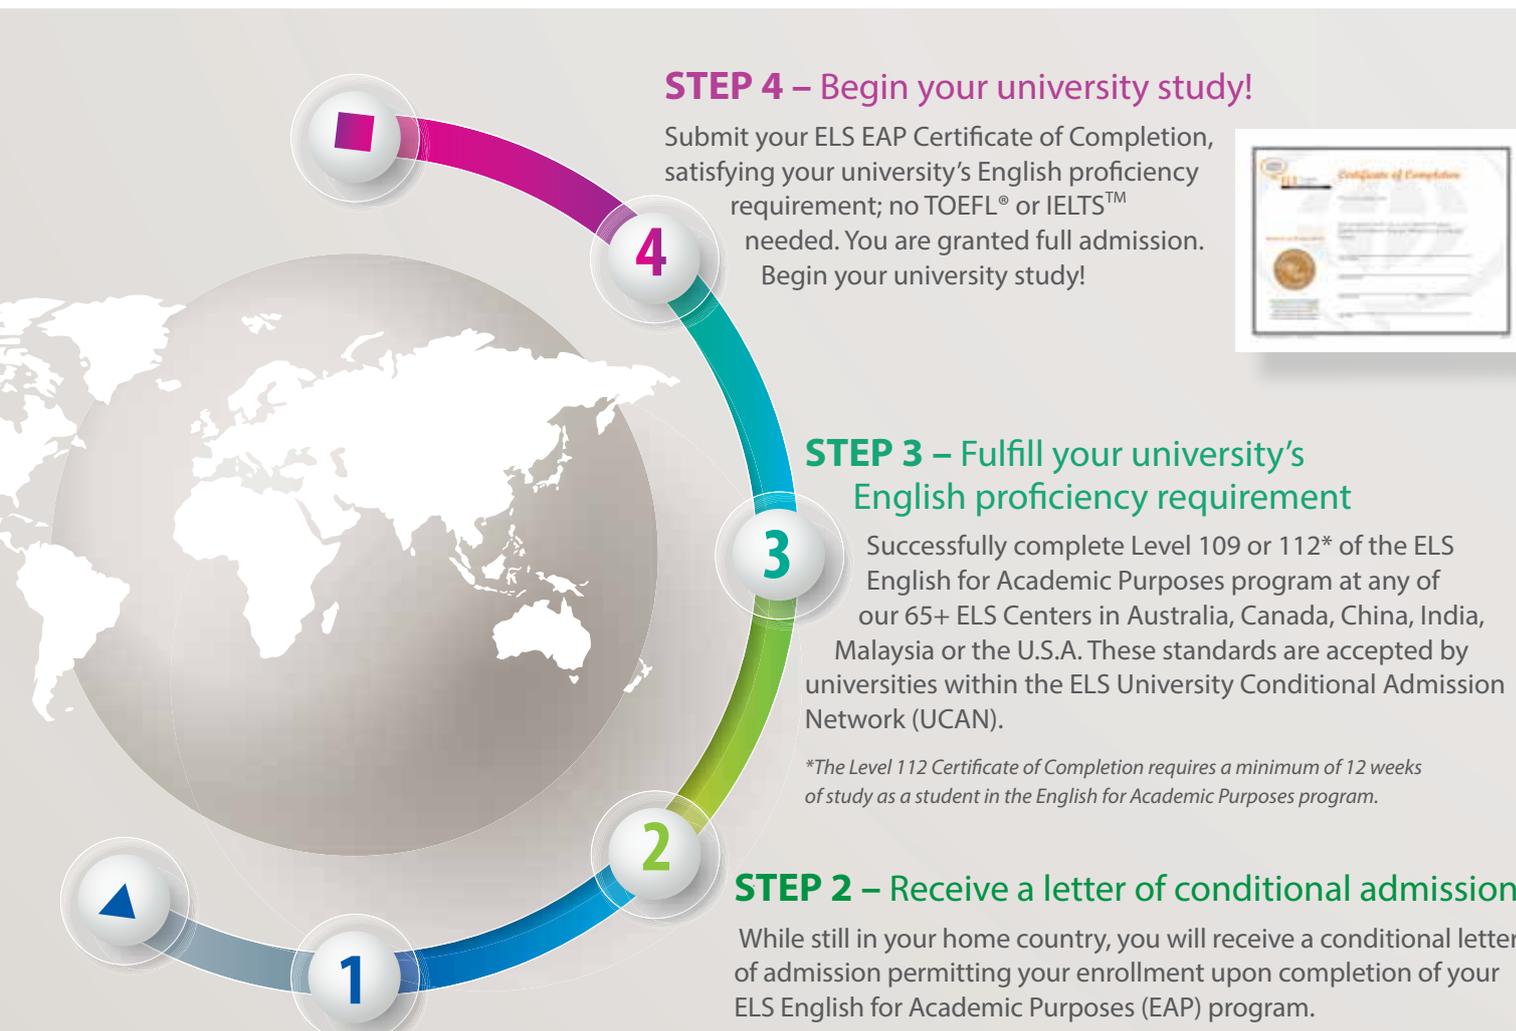

The Four Steps to University Enrollment via ELS

The ELS Difference

Even if your English proficiency is not yet up to the level that institutions of higher learning require for admission, university study abroad through ELS is as easy as 1-2-3-4 – without having to take the TOEFL® or IELTS™ examination.

Get started now!
UniversitySearch.com/Search

STEP 4 – Begin your university study!

Submit your ELS EAP Certificate of Completion, satisfying your university’s English proficiency requirement; no TOEFL® or IELTS™ needed. You are granted full admission. Begin your university study!

STEP 3 – Fulfill your university’s English proficiency requirement

Successfully complete Level 109 or 112* of the ELS English for Academic Purposes program at any of our 65+ ELS Centers in Australia, Canada, China, India, Malaysia or the U.S.A. These standards are accepted by universities within the ELS University Conditional Admission Network (UCAN).

The Level 112 Certificate of Completion requires a minimum of 12 weeks of study as a student in the English for Academic Purposes program.*

STEP 2 – Receive a letter of conditional admission

While still in your home country, you will receive a conditional letter of admission permitting your enrollment upon completion of your ELS English for Academic Purposes (EAP) program.

STEP 1 – Choose a university

Consult your Counselor and plan your pathway. Choose your two-year institution and/or your university and start the application process with the help of ELS University Admission Services.
