Schneider Recognized for Superior Safety Practices by NorFalco

Schneider, one of the largest and fastest-growing bulk chemical transportation carriers, recently received the Motor Carrier Performance Award by NorFalco in recognition of its safety leadership and professional service transporting sulfuric acid. The award was presented to Schneider at NorFalco's Sulfuric Acid Safety & Technology Seminar in Atlanta, Ga. The Motor Carrier Performance Award is issued to two carriers every year.

Sulfuric acid is one of the most important industrial chemicals, playing a role in the production of almost all manufactured goods including batteries, fertilizers, paper products, textiles, pharmaceuticals and more. Although a vital chemical, sulfuric acid is highly reactive and poses an explosion hazard. Safety must take priority when handling, storing or transporting the chemical.

"It's truly a privilege to be presented with the NorFalco Motor Carrier Performance Award," said George Grossardt, senior vice president and general manager, Bulk, Schneider. "Safety is at the forefront of everything we do. I'd like to give a special thanks to our tanker drivers and customer service team for making safety a priority each and every day. This award speaks volumes to the value we create for NorFalco."

Award recipients were thoroughly assessed on a range of criteria, including:

- Regulatory compliance
- Third-party audit results and response to findings
- Safety performance
- Compliance with NorFalco carrier standards
- Responsiveness to NorFaclo safety recommendations
- Testimonials from NorFalco staff and customers

Headquartered in Seven Hills, Ohio, NorFalco is one of North America's largest merchant marketers of sulfuric acid and responsible for the marketing and distribution of approximately two million tons of sulfuric acid per year.
