ISAIAH CORTEZ

The U.S. will send 30 athletes to compete at the 2026 U20 World Championships in Bratislava, Slovakia. The U.S. roster features a wealth of talent across all three Olympic styles, and follows a successful showing at the 2026 U17 World Championships.

Among the roster are two 2026 Senior and U23 World Team members in women's freestyle—Morgan Turner (50 kg) and Everest Leydecker (55 kg). Leydecker is the reigning U20 World champion and is the only returning U20 World Champion on the roster. Turner is a three-time U17 World medalist and won U17 World titles in 2025 and 2023.

The U.S. Greco-Roman contingent is headlined by Arvin Khosravy (82 kg) and Leister Bowling IV (77 kg), returners from the 2025 U20 World Team roster. Khosravy has appeared on five age-group World Championship teams, while Bowling IV captured the best finish on the U.S. Greco-Roman roster in 2025, a fifth-place finish.

The men's freestyle team is loaded with young talent, including Virginia Tech's incoming freshman Bo Bassett (65 kg) and Penn State commit Jayden James (74 kg). Bassett is a two-time age-group World medalist with a U17 gold in 2021 and a U20 bronze in 2024. James captured a gold medal at last year's U17 World Championships.

WRESTLERS TO WATCH

Everest Leydecker looks to defend her U20 World title after blitzing the field in 2025. Last year, Leydecker teched her way into the gold medal match, with each contest ending by 10-0 scorelines. In the championship match, she continued her roll and won a 10-2 decision over India's Reena to win the U20 World title. Leydecker's title last summer lit the fuse for a tremendous run on the domestic and international circuits this year. She started the year winning gold at the Zagreb Open Ranking Series in February. She then rolled to U20 and U23 national titles before winning the U.S. Open and Final X to secure spots on the U20, U23 and Senior World Teams in 2026. Leydecker teched her way to the Senior Pan American title in May, winning her two matches, 11-0 and 10-0.

Bo Bassett is back at the U20 World Championships after first appearing at the event in 2024, where he won bronze. Bassett's run to bronze featured four bonus victories with two pins and two technical falls. Before his U20 appearance, Bassett powered his way to the U17 World title in 2021. He notched three pins and a semifinal technical fall to claim the title. Bassett had one of the most impressive U.S. Open runs in recent history, where he competed in both the U20 and Senior divisions, winning both. After winning the U.S. Open, Bassett went on to sweep his best-of-three series at the U20 World Team Trials to lock his spot on the U20 World Team. Bassett's Senior division victory also punched his ticket to a Final X matchup with Real Woods, which is slated for next month. He is also on the U23 World Team and still has a shot at making three World Teams this year. Coming into the U20 World Championships, Bassett won gold at the U20 Pan American Championships in July.

Leister Bowling IV returns to the U20 World Championships for the second-straight year, following a fifth-place finish at last year's event in Samokov, Bulgaria. At 77 kg, Bowling IV finished 2-2 to post Team USA's best individual Greco-Roman finish at the championships. In his career for the U.S., he also claimed a U20 Pan American title in 2025 behind two technical fall shutouts and a fall in the gold medal match. At U20 Greco-Roman World Team Trials in April, Bowling IV only allowed five points across six matches and posted three technical falls. Bowling IV just completed his freshman year at Iowa as part of the Hawkeye Wrestling Club.

TOP STORYLINES

Triple Duty

Everest Leydecker and Morgan Turner are both set to take on the feat of representing the U.S. at three different World Championships. Both Leydecker and Turner will compete at the U20, U23 and Senior Worlds this year. The feat is more difficult this year with the tight turnaround between the U23 Worlds and Senior Worlds. At the U23 event, Turner and Leydecker will compete on October 14 and 15 in Las Vegas, Nevada. Then, at the Senior championships in Astana, Kazakhstan, Turner is slated to start competition on October 27. Leydecker begins her Senior World Championships on October 30. Bo Bassett is also still alive to represent the U.S. at the three championships, as he awaits his Final X matchup with Real Woods for the Senior World Championship spot on the men's freestyle team. Meanwhile, Bassett will compete at the U20 and U23 World Championships for Team USA.

Moving on Up

Just two weeks removed from becoming the first American and fifth individual overall to win three U17 World titles, Taina Fernandez makes the jump to the U20 stage this week. In her U17 career, Fernandez compiled a record of 12-0 with eight falls and three technical falls. She allowed only six points across those 12 matches, all of which were in a single contest, which she won 13-6. To claim her spot on the U20 World Team, Fernandez posted five of her six wins by technical fall at the U20 Women's Freestyle World Team Trials as part of USA Wrestling's Women's Nationals.

Making the Jump

Along with Fernandez debuting at the U20 World

Championships this week, two-time U17 World champion Morgan Turner, 2023 U17 World champion Piper Fowler and 2025 U17 World champion Jayden James will make their first appearances on the U20 stage. Turner is a three-time U17 World medalist with gold medals in 2023 and 2025, along with bronze in 2024. Turner has compiled an 11-1 mark across three U17 appearances with four falls and four tech falls. Fowler, who competed at the 2023 and 2024 U17 Worlds, stormed to the title in 2023, allowing just four points across her four victories. In Greece last year, James went a perfect 5-0 behind two technical falls and a pin.

NCAA Stars Take on the World

The men's freestyle squad features three 2026 NCAA All-Americans, who impressed on the national stage during their freshman campaigns. NCAA champion Landon Robideau of Oklahoma State leads the trio after winning the title at 157 pounds, upsetting defending national champion Antrell Taylor of Nebraska. Aaron Seidel of Virginia Tech and Aeoden Sinclair of Missouri both placed third at the 2026 NCAA Division I National Championships. In the tightly contested 133-pound division, Seidel edged out current Senior World Team member Marcus Blaze of Penn State to claim third. Sinclair capped off his season with a win over American's Caleb Campos to grab third at 184 pounds. Robideau and Seidel are both slated to make their World Team debuts in Slovakia. Sinclair first appeared on the World stage for the U.S. at the 2023 U17 World Championships, where he placed eighth.

Back in the Fold

Leister Bowling IV and Arvin Khosravy are back at the U20 World Championships after representing

Team USA's Greco-Roman squad at last year's event in Samokov, Bulgaria. Bowling IV placed fifth in his World Championship debut. Khosravy just missed a top-10 finish and placed 11th. This is going to be his fifth-straight age-group World Championship and third at the U20 level. The U.S. Greco-Roman team also features U17 World Team members Ezekiel Witt (2023) and Trayvn Boger (2024) making the step up to the U20 stage for their second World Championship appearances.

Switching it Up

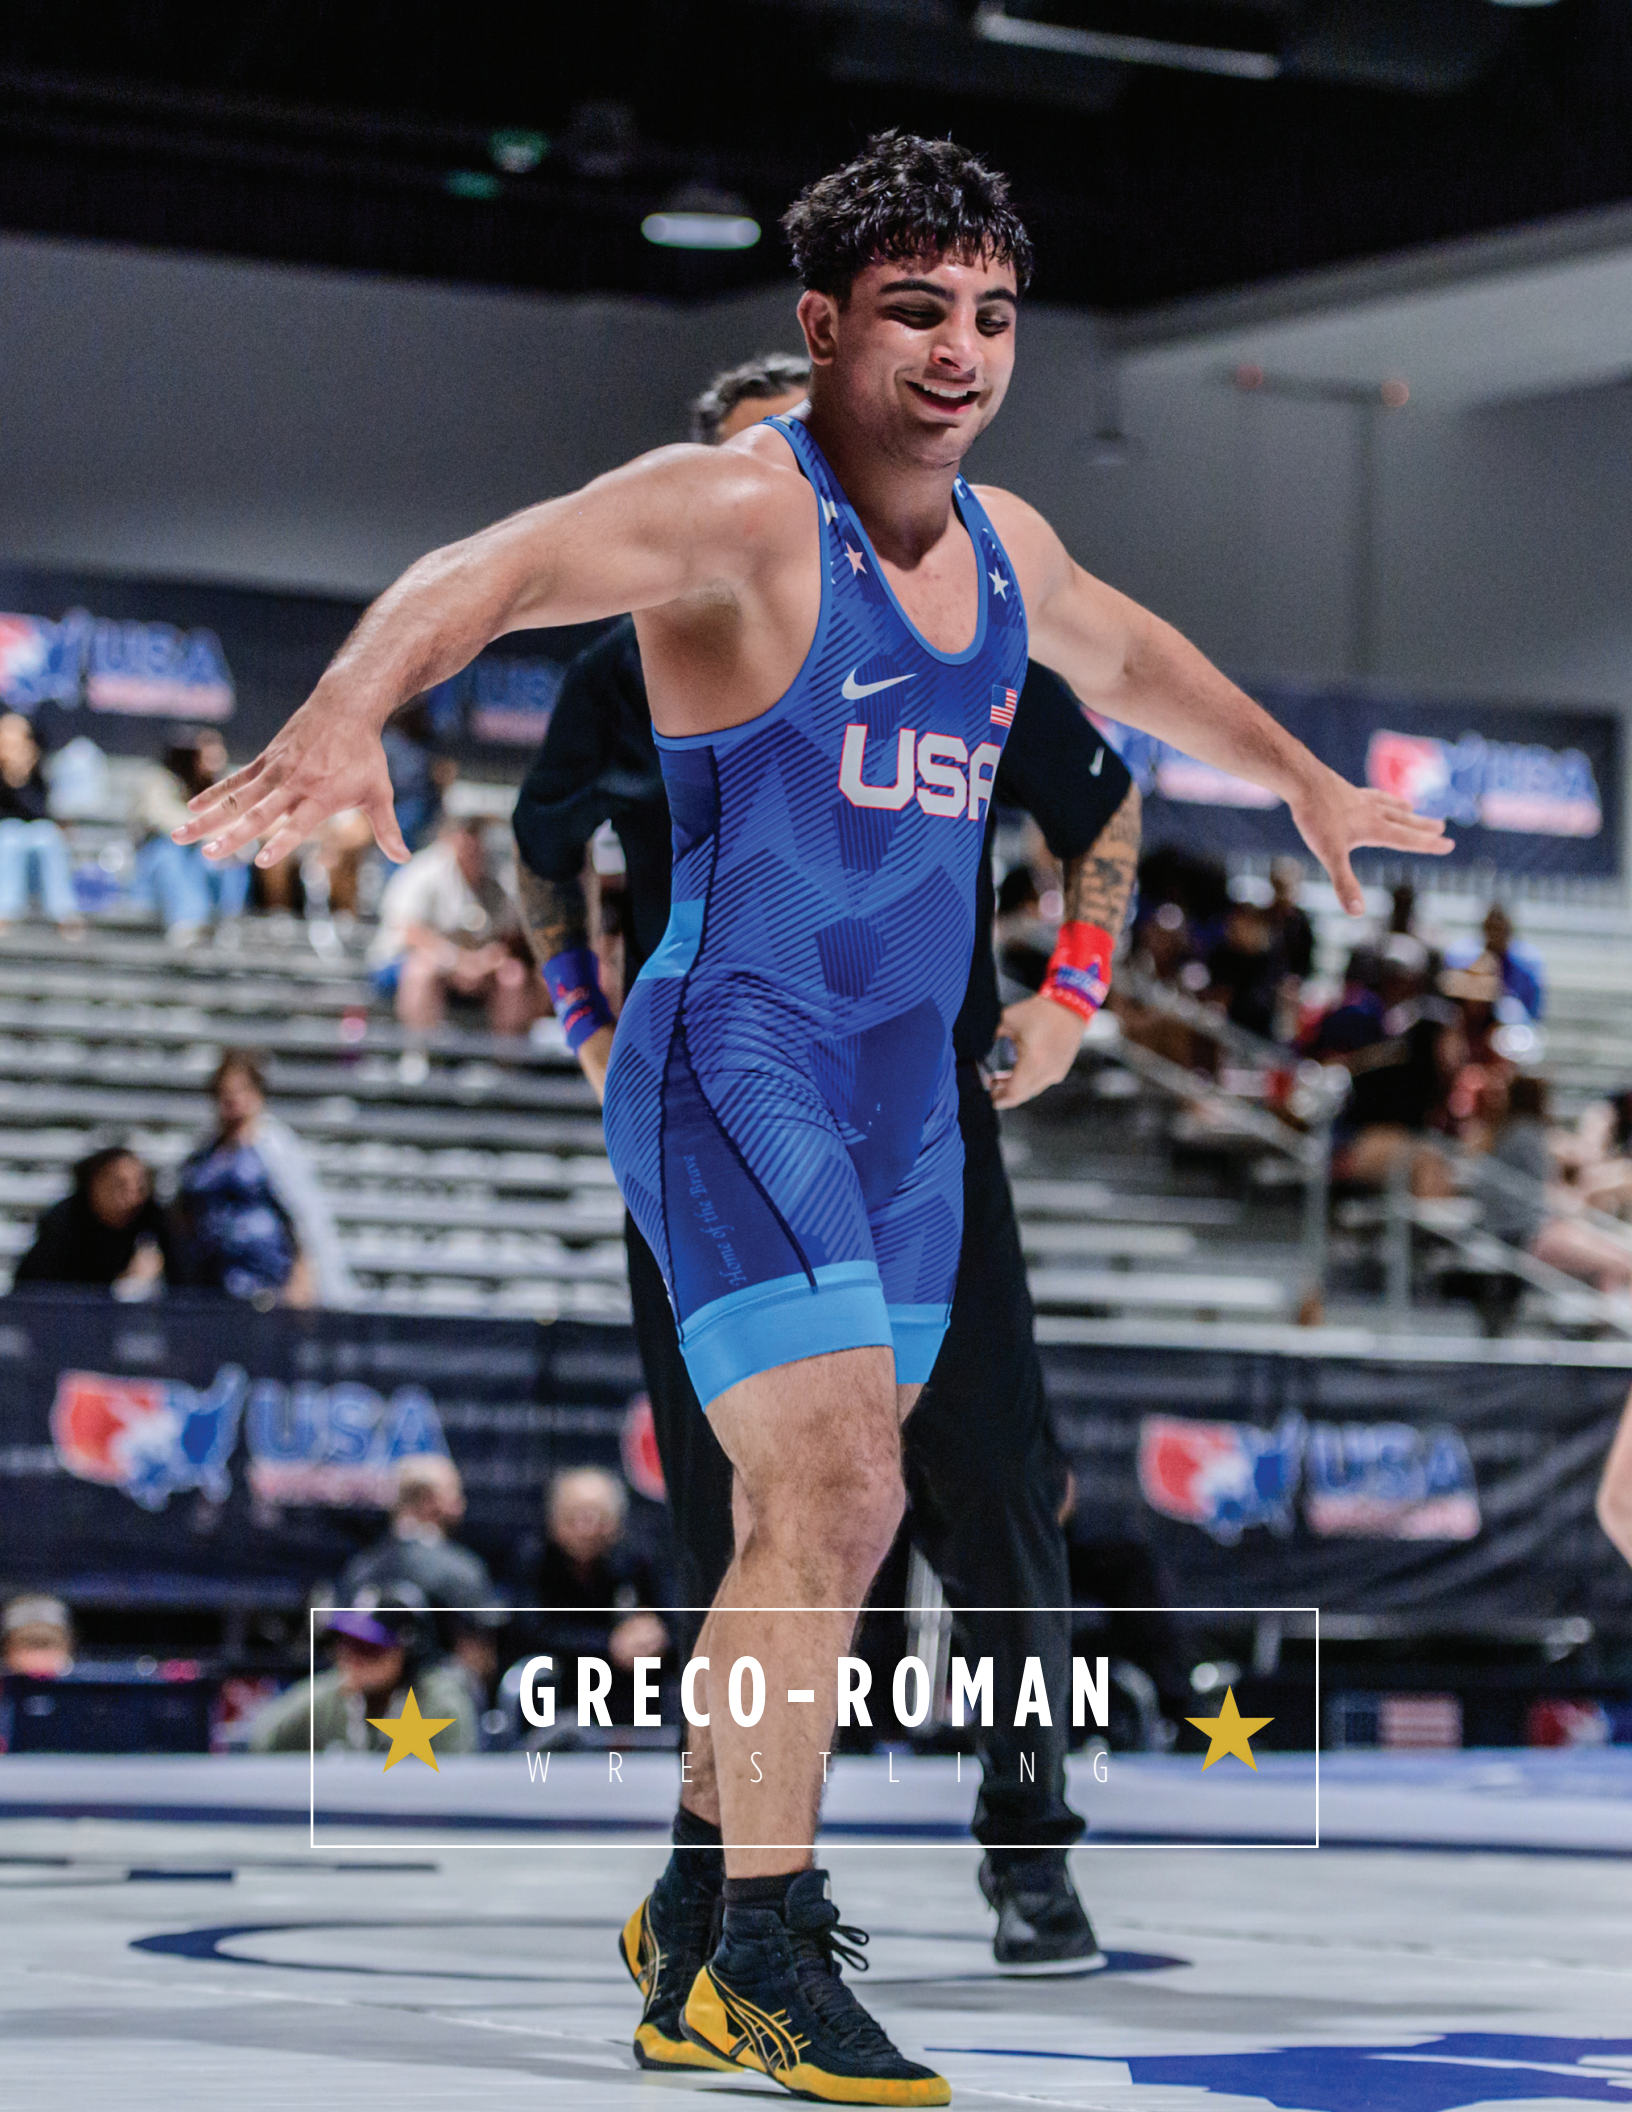

Isaiah Cortez is heading to his third-straight U20 World Championships this week in Bratislava. However, this will be his first appearance in men's freestyle. Each of the last two years, Cortez competed for Team USA in Greco-Roman, which included a silver medal in 2024 during his first appearance. Wrestling at 55 kg in 2024, Cortez won his first four matches before finishing with silver. Last year at 60 kg, Cortez went 1-1 and started the tournament with a pin. To earn his spot on the men's freestyle team this year, Cortez first won the U20 Nationals in Las Vegas to earn a bye into the best-of-three championships series at the U20 World Team Trials. In the championship series, Cortez swept Grey Burnett, whom he also beat in the finals at the U.S. Open.

Looking for a Three-Peat

The U.S. men's freestyle team is looking for its third-straight team title in Bratislava after claiming the team title in 2024 and 2025. Starting the run in 2024, Team USA finished with 175 points to beat out second-place Iran (160). The U.S. used nine medals in 2024 to pace it to the team title. In 2025, Team USA scored 185 points behind five gold medals to race past the field, where Kazakhstan finished second with 112 points. Team USA's two consecutive titles come on the heels of three straight titles from Iran, where the U.S. finished as the runner-up in 2022 and 2023.

J'DEN COX

National Freestyle Development and Resident Coach

J'den Cox has served as the USA Wrestling National Freestyle and Development Resident Coach since 2024, after closing one of the more impressive competitive men's freestyle wrestling careers in recent history. After a memorable 2016, the year in which he burst onto the Senior stage and won the U.S. Olympic Team Trials, Cox immediately qualified the 86 kg weight class for the 2016 Olympics in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

After winning a bronze medal at the 2016 Olympic Games, he won his first World bronze medal the following year (2017). He then won back-to-back Senior World titles in 2018 and 2019, followed by another World bronze in 2021 and a World silver medal in 2022.

Cox retired from competition during the 2024 U.S. Olympic Team Trials, and has served USA Wrestling from a coaching perspective ever since. Over the past two years, Cox is managed the USA Wrestling Elite U20 Resident Program, which trains at the United States Olympic and Paralympic Training Center. Along with assisting National Freestyle Coach Bill Zadick and Manager of Freestyle Programs Joe Russell, he is integral in developing the USA Wrestling talent pipeline. Cox oversees Pan American and World Teams for the U.S. at the age-group (U15, U17 and U20) levels.

In addition to the U20 Resident Program, Cox also manages the men's freestyle Elite Accelerator Program, which identifies and serves as a developmental stage for athletes with Olympic potential in the U17 and U20 pathways.

ZO EL OUARRAQE

Men's Freestyle Coach

Zo El Ouarraque is a decorated wrestler from Paris, France, who won a bronze medal at the 2014 European Championships. Ouarraque moved to the U.S. in 2017 and landed in Stillwater, Okla., where he began his coaching career under the prestigious John Smith.

Since completing his competitive career and beginning his coaching career, El Ouarraque has traveled with the U.S. team to many international competitions, steadily learning from U.S. National Team coaches Bill Zadick and Joe Russell, while imparting his knowledge on future stars.

Currently a developmental coach at the Cowboy Regional Training Center, he plays a vital role in preparing many U.S. competitors for the international stage, including 2026 U20 World Championships team members Landon Robideau and Dreshaun Ross.

CORY CROOKS

Men's Freestyle Coach

Cory Crooks joins the 2026 U20 World Championships coaching staff while serving as an assistant coach at Oregon State University.

Since joining the coaching staff at Oregon State, Crooks has helped the Beavers capture two Pac-12 titles in the past three seasons, marking the 23rd and 25th conference titles in program history.

Crooks' collegiate career spanned two universities, Arizona State and Oregon State, the latter of which he closed his career at.

He has actively earned international coaching experience with the U.S. over the past few years, and was a personal coach for the 2025 U20 World Championships, where the U.S. won the team title for the second-straight year. More recently, Crooks attended the U23 Pan American Championships in Lima, Peru, as a personal coach.
