U.S. NATIONAL TAEKWONDO TEAM TRIALS

BID PACKET

U.S. National Taekwondo Team Trials

2028–2032

This packet outlines USA Taekwondo's requirements for organizations interested in hosting the U.S. National Taekwondo Team Trials.

1. ABOUT USA TAEKWONDO

USA Taekwondo (USATKD) is the National Governing Body (NGB) for the sport of Taekwondo in the United States, as recognized by the United States Olympic & Paralympic Committee (USOPC). USATKD provides developmental opportunities for Taekwondo athletes throughout the United States to cultivate their knowledge of the sport while striving for world-class status.

Taekwondo is a defensive martial art that combines philosophy, mental discipline, physical exercise, and physical ability. It promotes a wide range of principles, including:

- Good physical condition
- Self-defense, or the ability to defend oneself
- Self-confidence
- Respect
- Good health regardless of gender, physique, or age

The origins of Taekwondo, which go back two thousand years, lie in Korea. Throughout its history, the sport has been known by various names, such as Taekyon and Subak. Its official name, Taekwondo, was announced in 1955, and the first championships were held a year later. The Korean Taekwondo Federation was founded in 1965, and the World Taekwondo Federation was founded in 1973, the same year the first World Championships took place. Taekwondo became an official Olympic sport at the 2000 Olympic Games in Sydney, Australia.

The mission of USATKD is to enable United States athletes to achieve sustained competitive excellence and to promote and grow the sport of Taekwondo.

2. EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Team Trials is USATKD's annual selection event for the U.S. National Team. The nation's highest-ranked athletes compete in Poomsae, Para, and Sparring for the opportunity to represent the United States in international competition.

USATKD is seeking a host city for a three-day competition in mid-January or early February. The host provides an arena or convention center that fits five to six competition rings, supporting meeting space, and a four- or five-star headquarters hotel, while USATKD supplies the mats, scoring, and competition equipment.

Review & Selection Process

1. Once proposals are received, the USATKD Events Department will conduct a thorough review of each bid based on the venue, hotel arrangements, ability to provide additional staff and volunteers, and a budgetary analysis.
2. The top two proposals will be notified and scheduled for a two-day site visit. All site visit expenses are borne by the prospective host committee. During the visit, one to two USATKD representatives will tour the venue, all hotels in the block, local restaurants, transportation services, and other event-related considerations.
3. After site visits to the final two cities, the USATKD Events Department will analyze each bid and make a recommendation to the CEO. Once a decision is made, the Events Department will notify all candidates and proceed to the contract phase for the venue and hotels.
