

Resources are for healthcare professionals, patients and families

http://www.gottransition.org	Program of The National Alliance to Advance Adolescent Health supported by U39MC25729 HRSA/MCHB; aims to improve transition from pediatric to adult health care through the use of new and innovative strategies for health professionals and youth and families; has information for health care providers, youth and families, & research and policy makers
http://www.sickkids.ca/Good2Go/for-health-care-providers/Other-Transition-Programs-and-Organizations/Index.html	Sick Kids in Toronto website
http://www.jatransition.org	Arthritis Foundation Transition Toolkit
http://www.nscscelpa.org/pdfs/transition_planning.pdf	List of transition resources including books and websites
http://depts.washington.edu/healthtr/	Adolescent Health Transition Project, Center of Human Development and Disability, University of Washington; site for providers, educators, families and teenagers. Includes recommendations for transition planning, guidance on working with youth and families, timelines and autonomy checklists.
https://heath.gwu.edu/directory-of-transition-websites	George Washington University, Graduate School of Education & Human Development-- offers a directory of websites; Sites are identified and put into a specific category to make it easier to search the Directory of Transition Websites
http://www.medicalhomeinfo.org/health/trans.html	AAP Medical Home site for physicians and patients
http://www.peds.umn.edu/centers/ihd/ncyd	National Center for Youth with Disabilities, university of Minnesota, Division of General Pediatrics and Adolescents Health; contains bibliographies of articles, programs and other education materials
http://www.parentcenterhub.org/?stransitionnichcy_org	National Information Center for Children and Youth with Disabilities, the Academy for Educational Department, US Department of Education ; for families, educators and other professionals, provides information, makes referrals
https://www.sickkids.ca/myhealthpassport/	This website allows for the teens to make a wallet size passport (can be laminated) that summarizes medical condition, medications and relevant health information/contacts. It is free and accessible online anywhere and there is a specific tab for rheumatology
http://www.ncd.gov	National Council on Disability, Department of Education; political efforts and recommendations to the President and Congress