

Thank you for making the Winter Rheumatology Symposium (WRS) 2023 a huge success. The meeting featured world-class lectures, panel discussions, and valuable educational clinical content with networking opportunities and interactive sessions.

Your fellow WRS participants have identified the following key takeaways from the symposium:

- Up-to-date clinical content and treatment information for managing challenging cases and treating pain in patients with rheumatic disorders
- More accurate means of screening and diagnosing unusual conditions
- Updated therapeutic information concerning treatment of inflammatory arthropathy/myopathy
- Improved strategies for reducing toxicities in patients

Feedback from the 2023 meeting:

“The best meeting ACR offers. Excellent speakers, topics, organization, and setting. Perfect amount of information spread over the course of the meeting with chances to network with colleagues from around the world in an intimate setting.”

“This is my favorite rheumatology conference. The talks are excellent. I like how small, casual, friendly, and intimate it is. I always leave feeling I learned a lot.”

“Speakers are top-notch. Everyone is very approachable, and discussions are always highly informative, ranging from scientific breakthroughs, clinical cases, and personal experiences.”

Additional Resources for Continued Learning

Visit the ACR website for upcoming in-person and virtual events and online courses.

Registration for the Winter Rheumatology Symposium 2024 is open now! Join us next year for a high-quality program in an intimate setting. See you where rheumatology skis!